A challenge awaits...
The Challenge:

In no more than 250 words, in English and in any genre you choose, explore the meaning of the sculpture on the left.* Rules:

1. Only one or two participants per entry. Participants must be Grade 11 students of BLIS.

2. Entries will be judged by BLIS faculty for their creative, well crafted and reflective interpretation of the subject.

3. Entries must be delivered to Mr. Hemingway by 16:30, Tuesday, December 19, 2012.

4. The winner will be announced on Friday, December 21.

*Yes, we know this is not a sculpture, it is a photograph of a sculpture, blah, blah, blah.
The Prize:

One 30-minute photography session with Mr. Andy Hemingway.

1. The session must be scheduled in between 31 December 2012 and 4 January 2013.

2. The session will take place on the campus of BLIS.

3. Light painting techniques may be arranged for an additional fee; this may need to be scheduled after sunset.*

4. This opportunity is offered in good faith, but comes with no guarantees.

*Yes, we know that the sun doesn’t set, that it just looks like it’s setting, that the earth is rotating on its axis, yadda, yadda, yadda.